"GRAMMA"

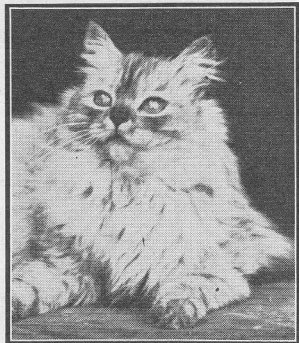

"GRAMMA"

BY DR. JOHN S. OWENS.

*WITH EIGHT HALF TONE ILLUSTRATIONS

Just as Black Beauty was written to create sympathy for the horse and to teach how to treat him humanely, the author of this story endeavors to put that often abused and neglected animal, the cat, into proper relations with its owner. He relates the adventures of "Gramma" from kittenhood to old age, also the adventures of a number of her family. Incidentally he tells us how to treat the various ailments peculiar to cats, and for this alone the book is worth possessing by every owner of one of these household pets.—Indianapolis Journal.

We will send a copy of this book for 30 cts. Address the CAT JOURNAL office, 62 State St., Rochester, N. Y.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

Notwithstanding the fact that we have repeatedly printed in the Journal the fact that we are behind with date of issue, we are constantly receiving letters from subscribers asking why we are sending back numbers. The Journal was suspended for six months. The Post Office Department will not allow us to skip dates, print double numbers or do anything but try and catch up as fast as we can. We are printing every twenty days, or less, and will be behind until printing in that way catches up with date. We intend to print this notice until we catch up so that every subscriber, every month, will know that we are still behind and will be until the date on the paper agrees with the month in which you receive it

Is It Possible?

Is it possible that in order to properly educate a young lady she must witness the cutting up of either alive or dead cats and dogs. According to the newspaper reports regarding matters at Wellesley College things have reached a rather startling condition. The college has been obtaining a lot of advertising that we would think would not be at all desirable to have. If half that has been said in the newspapers is true then it is evident that all savages are not found in Africa nor do they all wear trousers in this country. The editor will say that if he had a daughter he would rather she could neither read nor write than have her have any of that kind of education.

It seems according to the reports that as the ones in authority have been brought before the public in this manner, they do not intend to be parties to stealing any more cats but will raise their own so that if they wish to cut one up they can do so without being arrested for operating on the family pets in the neighborhood.

Persian and Angora

There is probably no small thing if it may be called a small thing that causes the editor so much mental distress as to have people call their beautiful Persian cats Angoras. Even breeders, who should know better and who should set an example to those who do not know are guilty of this offense.

To call a Persian cat an "Angora" is like calling a gentleman a loafer or a Negro a "Nigger." Every time you call your cat an "Angora" you are calling it after a very inferior animal.

The original type of Angora and let us be thankful that but few, if any, exist in this country was a long, lank, scrubby, curly haired thing and as soon as the Persians were brought into England this type was immediately eliminated as far as possible. It is a word that you very rarely hear in England and never by one who is posted.

It always bothers us when an advertisement is sent in for Angora kittens and caused acute distress when occasionally one advertises Persian-Angoras. That is like talking about scarlet blue ribbon.

At our late visit to the Chicago cat show we were taken to task because we did not instruct our readers better. We replied that we had been trying for ten years to instruct people about this mistake but it seemed impossible to get it into their heads.

Try Photographing the Cat

This article and engravings are published by permission of Guide to Nature, a monthly nature magazine, published by the Agassiz Association, Arcadia, Sound Beach, Conn.

When you can find nothing else to do with your camera, when you no longer care to visit the woods or the fields or the marshes for some of the smaller objects gin with the cat in the act of taking her usual meal, or with two interviewing each other, and in various similar cat-like actions. Perhaps all this is easy. But try it and see. When you have done these things well, have the cat open her mouth and speak to you. But do not prolong the process or she will get so tired, or be so impressed by the ludicrousness of the situation that she will open her mouth to its greatest extent. If, however, you want to give her a jollification and to reward her for her patience, hand her a good bottle of highball and to be found there, when you have taken the portraits of your friends, brothers and sisters, uncles, cousins and aunts; when the dog has posed until he is tired of it, try photographing a cat.

JUST FOR A STARTER—YET NOT SO EASY AS IT MAY SEEM

But perhaps you will say, "That is the simplest of all; long months ago I passed the cat stage in my photographic career. Now I want to get things in nature that are really worth write."

But hold on a minute; even the simplest thing can be done a little better than it has yet been done. Some one has said that the classic is only general information expressed in a form more nearly perfect than any in which it has been or ever will be formulated. Everything, aside from the truly classic, may be improved. Of course you will naturally be-see how she will hold it and gaze at it and lovingly draw it to herself and take a prolonged drink.

"But hold on. Do you really mean this? We thought that photographing a cat is an easy matter, but how can we induce her to hold a bottle, stand on her hind legs, draw the bottle to her and take a drink?"

I don't know. Mr. John Breen of Bridgeport, Connecticut, knows, but will not tell. Therefore, I suggest to our readers that they with their camera return to the ordinary, plebian photography of the cat, and if they proceed far enough and with patience enough it is possible that they may discover Mr. Breen's method of inducing the cat to perform some of the astonishing "stunts" shown in the accompanying pictures. Mr. Breen kindly let us have the photographs but discreetly declines to tell how he made the cat stand upright and hold the bottle of, I suppose, catnip tea.

Of course, you are a naturalist and are dealing only with a naturalist's cat. I do not mean to say that yawning, laughing, talking and a prolonged nigh at the bottle are characteristics of naturalists, but they evidently are, in this case, of the naturalist's cat. The cat, however, to be true to the instinct of her master, must be a tramp, at least temporarily, for where is the naturalist who is not happy at the thought of a tramp even if he does not drink out of the proverbial old tomato can.

Of course your cat will be a lover of lenses; she will like to gaze into infinity, and to give her scope for the exercise of her ability along that line, hand her your field glasses and see how gracefully she will balance them on one paw, steady them with the other and will gaze learnedly at some distant constellation, available to her in the daytime because of her light-gathering eyes. Should you encounter any obstacle in inducing her to hold the field glasses, to focus them and to gaze into them studiously, you must

A CAT LAUGH

Is that all you are going to do? Even a cat can do better.

"OH, I'M TIRED OF THIS!"

"In the February number we will do something worth while."

Rocking His Kitty to Sleep

Hearing a song that was sweet to hear
From a dear little boy in a rocking-chair,
I tipped to the door to take a peep,
And found he was rocking his kitty to sleep.

He held her close to his baby breast,
Singing: "The birdies have gone to rest,
And dear little kitty must say good night,
And close her eyes to the fading light."

Then I moved away to my task again,
Listening long to the sweet refrain
Till the voice grew still, and I did not hear
A sound from the lad in the rocking chair.

So I tipped to the door once more to peep,
And found the little boy fast asleep,
While kitty perched proudly upon his knee,
With wide-awake eyes looked up at me.

—Margaret A. Richard in Woman's Work.

Official British Cats

John Bull employs a large number of cats—exactly how many it would be impossible to say, but if we include those in the various government offices, barracks, prisons, docks and workshops the number cannot fall far short of 2,000.

These animals work solely for the British government, says a writer in the World recently, and for their services are duly rewarded with a liberal supply of food and cozy quarters.

The principal governments of the world acknowledge the business ability of cats by placing under their surveillance mail bags, grain bags, army stores and other goods belonging to the various departments.

All cats in the service of the British government are on the payroll, each receiving as a general rule 25 cents a week. Should any of them fall ill the head of the department to which the animal belongs is at liberty to call in a veterinary and charge the government with his services.

In the home office is a cat rejoicing in the name of Toby, who is constantly in the doctor's hands. He suffers from asthma and positively dreads the advent of London's cold and fogs. He is 11 years of age and is a great favorite with every one. Although he suffers so much in the region of his windpipe he still is a great hunter and has a record for killing 16 mice in a single week.

Joe is at the head of the board of education. Two summers only have passed over his head, yet he is an old hand at catching mice, rats, pigeons and sparrows. In catching pigeons he resorts to several ingenious devices.

He has been detected carrying newspapers to the spot frequented by pigeons, hiding beneath it and thus awaiting his opportunity to seize an unwary bird. His record for pigeon catching is six a week, but frequently he has captured two in an hour.

Trillie is an important member of the war office staff. She receives a grant from the British government of 25 cents a week, has miles of corridors to roam over and is friends with scores of high personages who never tease her. For hours she paces the cold dark corridors in the basement and chases away the vermin that attack the thousands of old documents which until a few months ago were stacked there.

Just a Kitten

BY HENRY MORGAN WHITE

He was only a cat, not even that, just a kitten. But he was of the lineage of ancient Persia, descendant of the blue blood breeds of the mountains of Iran. Deep and thick was his fur, blended in handsome stripes his markings. He was not like other cats. He never yowled o'nights, disturbed the neighbors with caterwaulings or made surreptitious visits to the family larder. Other cats he would none of for their crude and animal ways found no element of likeness to his gentle spirit. The ethical atmosphere of the palace of Shushan dwelt in the strains of his blood. All his loves and sympathies were for human kind. All other attractions failed for him before the supreme delight of human companionship. He loved his mistress and if the master deigned to allow him to lie on wrist or shoulder his happiness was complete, the big eyes shone and the little frame throbbed with the condensed energy of his purrs.

The name of the cat tribe is almost a synonym for treachery and revenge. The best domestic cat resents with quick blow of her paw the slightest injury. But the cat of our story kept the even temper of his way and accepted punishment with no disturbing of the equanimity of his disposition. These occasions were rare. Who shall not say that that even hot-blooded, quick tempered members of the cat tribe can in the process of the years come into the refined graces of temperament of human kind?

Our cat came to his end in youth. Some boys injured him and a sore throat prevented nutrition. Ordinarily one would hasten the end. But his patience, his hunger for the company of human friends, happy if permitted to lie at their feet, forbade. It was his last night. No putting him in the woodshed then but a soft library rug. His master came in and spoke the only name the kitten knew. Summoning his last strength he rose and tried to go towards the friendly voice but fell in a step or two. An hour later and all seemed still. But a stroke of the fingers and the little head tried to lift in the old way only to sink again, the last sign of life.

Lengedary and romantic history are full of stories of favorite animals, horses and dogs, accompanying the shades of their masters to the spirit world. Perhaps there is a heaven where good cats go.

To use a familiar quotation from Shakespeare with a slight change—
His life was gentle, and the elements
So mix'd in him that Nature might stand up,

And say to all the world, He had a soul—
Yerkshire Gleaner, (Lee, Mass).

Rescue of a Tiger Kitten

According to Agent Burns of the Humane Society, Charles N. Potter, No. 157 Lancaster avenue, Buffalo, N. Y., is a gentleman and a hero; if a certain tiger kitten whose home is in Gibson street, had her say, she would probably corroborate the agent's opinion.

Yesterday morning the Humane Society was notified that a cat was on top a telegraph pole at Gibson street, near Broadway, had been there since Saturday, and that all attempts to rescue the little animal had proved futile.

Agent Burns was quickly on the scene and made one try at climbing the pole. Then Mr. Potter offered his services, and pluckily climbed, and when he was two thirds up his strength failed, and down he came, protesting. Mr. Burns borrowed a ladder, the longest the neighborhood afforded. This reached about half way up. Then a big barrel was put into requisition, and the ladder, mounted on that, reached two thirds to the top of the pole, where the frightened kitten was mewling piteously.

Again shoes and coat were off, and Mr. Potter made a second attempt. A successful one. Only the fear of frightening the almost rescued kitten kept the crowd from cheering, as Mr. Potter reached up and lifted the little animal from its perilous position.

Slowly, carefully, the kitten on his shoulder, he made his way down to the ladder, where willing hands relieved him of his furry burden, and an excited, breathless little boy pointed out the kitten's home. Mr. Kitten was restored to his family, none the worse for his adventure. A good meal and a cosy fire made him quickly forget his troubles, while the dispersing crowd cheered the man who wasn't too busy to help a small cat out of trouble. A dog some bystanders told Mr. Burns, had chased the cat up the pole on Saturday night, and ever since the neighbors had been trying to rescue the little creature, until someone wisely appealed to the Humane Society for the needed assistance.—"Buffalo Express."

NOTES

Personal and Otherwise

The Cleveland Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and Children placed 473 Cats in homes last year.

Mrs. C. J. Browning, of Rochester, N. Y., sold two of her famous blue kittens at the Atlantic Cat Show in N. Y. for $105.

Mrs. F. W. McIntyre, of Red Oak, Iowa, has lately started the Red Oak Cattery. Her specialty for the present will be whites and brown tabbies.

Miss E. M. Cory, of Fresno, Calif., has purchased a fine copper-eyed blue male kitten, sired by Neila Billi II. ex Blue Betty, of Mrs. P. S. Keefer, Oakland, Calif.

At the New York show the masked silver female, Portia Frost, who was awarded second, is the property of Mrs. F. E. Connolly and not owned by Dr. Church as stated in the last Journal.

Mrs. Fiske has purchased from Mrs. Ethel A. Clahane, Princess Rajah, orange tabby from General Jack as a mate for Colonial Robin. She is a fine little cobby cat with good color, head and eyes and should prove a good addition to this lady's stock.

Kilravock Kennels, of Orange, N. J., has sold Warbler, the blue-eyed white male kitten by Christopher ex Lady Virginia, to Mrs. G. C. Gillispie, of Moorestown, N. J. Warbler won first in the kitten class and specials for Best White Kitten in the show, at Madison Square Garden, last December.

Mrs. Geo. M. Fiske has become the owner of Miss Kew Owlet from the choice stock of Mrs. C. E. Folsom. Owlet is from Ch. Lord Kew Tangerine ex Imported Brown tabby Brayfort Tangerine. Owlet is bred to Colonial Robin and this combination should produce some very desirable results.

Mrs. P. S. Keefer is patting herself on the back because her Blue Chappie, nine months old and bred by her, bears such a very marked resemblance to his sire, Neila Billi II. This youngster weighs 10 pounds. His wins in P. C. C. show, Mrs. A. Burland, judge: two firsts, a third, and five specials. He will be "at service" in this publication later on.

Mrs. Elizabeth Pyne, of Milford, Mass., is congratulating herself over the success of her young orange stud "Boy Admiral" and he will soon be offered for service in this Journal. He won first in kitten, first in Novice, best kitten in the show and fourteen specials, the first time shown and not quite 9 months old. He is a son of Red Admiral ex Lady Beresford.

Mrs. Conlisk, of Gowanda, N. Y., has just sent a cat called Phantomis to Grace W. Barry, of Dallas, Texas. After the receipt of the cat she wrote Mrs. Conlisk expressing her approval of the little man and expressed herself as follows: "Phantomis, arrived about an hour ago and he is not only the most beautiful but by far the most gentle cat I ever purchased and I must thank you heartily for the little man."

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT.

This department is under the direction of Miss Janet McIntosh, 574 E. Spruce St., Manchester, New Hampshire, to whom all communications must be sent. Write your own address in full on each letter. Cases and queries will be inserted without charge. If an immediate answer is desired by mail, Send a Fee of $1 which includes medicine and advice and often a second letter for same fee.

All medicines advertised in this department are Homeopathically prepared and may be obtained of the Editor at 25c. a bottle. Dose is one tablet or disk (half pea shape) for a kitten; two for a grown cat; nine months being the dividing line. Place medicine in a small teaspoonful of water or milk or in the food and administer according to severity of attack. One or two hours apart is the usual time or oftener in an acute attack. If liquids are used, one drop for a kitten, two drops for a cat; or 5 drops in half a glass of water for a kitten; 8 drops for a grown cat; a teaspoonful for a dose for either. The strength is usually the 3x or 6x.

"Philadelphia Novice."—Yours of Jan. 31st was received and am sorry not to give answer through Journal as your request. All communications are held inviolable and omission of name and address would seem to question this well understood fact. Please furnish these and an answer by mail will be sent you for immediate help and fuller advice as to cause, etc., will be given through this department.

Mrs. A. H. R.—Your letter was so long in reaching me that advice for pregnant queen is obviously too late. The three year old queen, who is very thin and appetite poor, would be greatly benefited if you would give her Arsenicum 6X every 2 hours, 2 tablets for a dose, for 2 weeks and then less often. Two tablespoonsfull of Olive oil a day and plenty of the food you mention, substituting cream for the milk. If she eats but little at a time then feed oftener. She will let you know when she is ready to breed again and should not mind if she puts the time off until the fall, for with good feeding and a long rest after her miscarriage she will be better and stronger for the cares and duties of maternity. Watch her closely during the critical second week of her pregnancy, for nature often marks these periods by a recurrence of the same disaster and it is well to thwart, if possible, this tendency by preventive measures. Should you see the least signs of a miscarriage, put 10 drops of Sabina 3X in half a glass of water and give 3 or 4 doses (teaspoonful) every 15 minutes. This should at once check the flow.

HOW TO BREED AND RAISE CATS AND KITTENS SUCCESSFULLY, by Claire D. Barker.

This is a series of articles, reprinted from some of the first numbers of the Cat Journal. To make it more interesting, illustrations are embodied in the pamphlet. Price, 25 cts., postpaid.

GRAMMA, THE AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF A CAT, By Dr. John S. Owen.

We bought the blance of the edition of this book and have but a limited number left. It contains much valuable information. Price, postpaid, 30 cts. Paper binding.

THE BOOK OF THE CAT. A very fine imported work, by Miss Francis Simpson. Formerly sold at $8, but has been reduced by the publisher to $5, by express, or $5.45 postpaid. Over 350 fine half tone illustrations, besides 12 full page colored plates. Pages are the size of Webster's Dictionary. This should be in the library of every cat lover.

EVERYBODY'S CAT BOOK. Miss Dorothy

Champion's new book on the cat. Miss Champion has given in this condensed, handy form, the result of many years experience. Not a thing is recommended in this work that she has not proven by actual test in her own cattery. The chapters on proper color breeding and standards for different colors are worth alone many times the price of the book. Price, postpaid, $2.

Bargains in Back Numbers

We have a very limited number of sets of volumes I, II, III complete, excepting Feb. number of Vol I. This set of papers we will send, unbound by mail, postpaid, for $3.

A few sets of the first five volumes complete, excepting Feb. number, Vol. I. These we will send, postpaid, unbound, for $5.

We have unbound volumes VI, VII, VIII, which we will send by mail, postpaid, for $1 each.

We have a very few sets of bound volumes, from the first, complete, bound in cloth, each year, in a volume, which we will send by express or freight. Price, for the ten volumes, $24.

Price of single volumes, 1, $5, by mail, postpaid. We have less than ten of these complete and cannot supply more after these are gone.

Any other volume, excepting Vol. 1, bound in cloth, $2.25 by mail, postpaid.

HUMANE FUND

ROCHESTER CAT CLUB, Incorporated

WE WISH to call special attention of those who are interested in humane work for animals to this fund. We solicit gifts and bequests from those who wish to help in this work. It is desired that this may be liberally considered, as the club are anxious to commence some humane work for horses, dogs and cats at the very earliest possible moment

THE FUND WILL BE INVESTED WHERE IT WILL BE SECURE

It is the intention to use only the interest of this money for the work and we can easily see that it must be of some size before the income will enable its promoters to do much.

When Sending
Your Renewal
Please Send Something For This Fund

Will You Not Help this Work?

The income from this fund will probably be used to erect drinking fountains for horses, dogs, with a bathing place for birds, or erecting homes for needy animals, or any other work which in the judgment of the committee is wise. IT IS A GOOD WORK.

Any Sum Acceptable

In order to be sure that all money is received and accounted for, we will report in the CAT JOURNAL each month the amounts received.

This Money will be Safely Invested

FORM OF BEQUEST TO BE USED IN MAKING YOUR WILL

I give, devise and bequeath to THE ROCHESTER CAT CLUB'S HUMANE FUND, of Rochester, New York,
